DETAILED ACTION

Note to Applicant Regarding 35 USC § 112 6th Paragraph

1. In regards to claim 11, only those claims using “means for” or “step for” modified by some functional language, as long as it is not modified by sufficient structure, material, or acts for achieving the specified function, will invoke 112.6th paragraph. If the applicant chooses to invoke 112.6th paragraph without using “means for” or “step for”, applicant may do so by explicitly stating so in the subsequent response to this office action. In the present case processing means, signal transmission means and signal receiving means have not been considered by the Examiner as invoking 112.6th paragraph.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. In regard to claim 12, although the specification describes how a speaker can be a signal transmission means, it does not describe how a microphone can be a signal transmission means. .

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

4. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1 – 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claims 1 - 10 are drawn to a method for evoking and measuring response signals in a human patient. The method implies a particular machine, however the machine does not impose a meaningful limit on the scope of the claims nor does the machine involve more than insignificant extra-solution activity. Additionally, the methods do not transform a particular article. Furthermore, there's no useful, concrete and/or tangible result because nothing is being done with the calculated data.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1, 2, 6, 7, 11, 15 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5,003,986 to Finitzo et al.

In regard to claims Finitzo et al. discloses providing a plurality of discrete stimulus signals to the human patient in a predetermined encoded sequence (Col. 4, lines 36 – 44), each of said discrete stimulus signals selected to evoke at least one desired response signal in the human patient (Col. 4, lines 44 – 48); acquiring unfiltered signals from the human patient, said acquired unfiltered response signals including signal noise (Col. 4, lines 448 – 51); and utilizing said predetermined encoded sequence to extract said desired response signals from said acquired unfiltered response signals (Col. (Col. 4, line 52 – Col. 5, line 35). Each of the discrete stimulus signals are auditory signals and the response signal is an auditory evoked brainstem response signal (col. 4, lines 22 – 26). Finitzo et al.

disclose a processing means (21), a signal transmission means (17) and a signal receiving means (11, 13, 15).

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 13 and 14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
